book summary the main topics in this book are understanding conflict effective communication managing emotions in conflict negotiation and problem solving mediation and facilitation cultural sensitivity in conflict resolution conflict resolution in teams conflict resolution in the workplace conflict resolution training is a comprehensive book that provides individuals with the necessary knowledge and skills to effectively manage and resolve conflicts this book offers practical techniques for communication and problem solving emphasizing the importance of active listening and emotional intelligence in conflict resolution with real life examples and interactive exercises conflict resolution training offers a practical and hands on approach to conflict resolution empowering readers to navigate conflicts in various settings such as the workplace and personal relationships by promoting constructive dialogue and understanding this book equips individuals with the tools to transform conflicts into opportunities for positive change undoubtedly the most comprehensive analysis of the role of culture and emergent practices in capacity building currently at hand d estrée and parsons have produced a commendable amalgamation and scrutiny of local cultural and indigenous mediation practices in a number of contexts that empower local people while interacting and integrating with western mediation models in a blend of hybridity the book is beautifully structured and will attract a wide readership including graduate and undergraduate students sean byrne director arthur v mauro centre for peace justice and professor peace conflict studies university of manitoba canada since late 1990s conflict resolution field has recognized the need to integrate culture in its processes this book goes beyond such theoretical recognition and provides empirical evidence and solid concrete cases on how local actors from a wide range of cultural contexts integrated their cultural analysis and tools in their own sustainable conflict resolution processes it also offers an effective set of guidelines and lessons learned for policy makers and peacebuilding practitioners on the need to deepen their reliance on local cultural practices of peace mohammed abu nimer professor of international peace and conflict resolution school of international service american university and founder and director of the salam peacebuilding and justice institute in washington dc usa the evolving identities of communities impacted by deep historical divisions and population migration in the context of life threatening resource shortages present opportunities and challenges for conflict transformation professionals at every level d estrée and parsons respond to this challenge with a remarkable collection of stories from around the world that amplify the innovation in the field while capturing its history and complexity it serves as the bridge between mediation and peacebuilding that is so necessary today prabha sankaranarayan ceo mediators beyond borders international in this excellent book tamra pearson d estrée and ruth parsons and their impressive collection of case study authors have analysed four generations of conflict resolution transformation theory and practice they highlight the diverse ways in which the burgeoning field of conflict resolution theorists and practitioners mirrored the ascendance and now decline of the neo liberal western project first and second generation efforts were based on notions of possessive individualism rational choice theory and a general acceptance of the status quo culture was ignored or eliminated as were deeper questions of political and social inequality but more importantly there was an unwillingness to consider the power and the wisdom that resided in locality third and fourth generation conflict transformers on the other hand have engaged these deeper questions and focused more attention on emancipatory creative partnerships social and economic justice co learning and hybridised models flowing from external engagement with local wisdom this is a book that needs to be read by anyone interested in the transformative power of conflict resolution and long term social and political change kevin p clements professor chair and foundation director the national centre for peace and conflict studies university of otago new zealand while waves of scholarship have focused either on the value of presumed universal models or of traditional practices of conflict resolution curiously missing has been the recognition and analysis of the actual intermingling and interacting of western and local cultural practices that have produced new and emergent practices in our global community in this compilation of case studies the authors describe partnerships forged between local practice expertise and bearers of western institutional models to build innovative approaches to mediation and conflict resolution including stories of these experiences and the resulting hybrid models that emerged the book explores central questions of cultural variation and integration such as the perception of purpose and function of resolution processes attitudes toward conflict arenas and timeframes third party roles barriers to process use as well as how to remain true to culture and context it also examines partnership dynamics and lessons learned for modern cross cultural collaboration examines the politics of expertise in the practices of peacemaking in post civil war lebanon based on multi sited ethnographic research centering on beirut but tracing international peace work as far as switzerland and the united states master peace examines the politics of expertise in the application of metropolitan theories of violence and practices of peacemaking in post civil war lebanon through ethnographic encounters archival research and interviews that shed light on the worlds of academic research un agencies ngos and think tanks nikolas kosmatopoulos argues that so called experts from violence researchers to peace professionals have often misrepresented and exacerbated the violence they claim to be tackling through their deployment of racialized tropes of conflict and communalizing peace practices the assemblage of these tropes and practices which kosmatopoulos calls master peace naturalizes social and structural inequalities by collapsing them into supposedly innate cultural and sectarian divisions master peace installs unequal relations of domination through the work of metropolitan theories as in ethnic conflict and failed state and practices such as conflict resolution workshops and crisis reports converting the radical demand for just peace into a postcolonial regime of dependence on technocratic tools unaccountable experts and external donors kosmatopoulos shows how master peace has been framing debates designing interventions of peace and war and defining the problem of violence in lebanon and the middle east for decades to deleterious effect as the supposed moral high ground that justifies external intervention and precludes political solutions or democratic forms of action master peace has obscured the geopolitical and ideological nature of violence in the region substituting democratic notions of peace for an elitist antipolitics of expertise characterized by dependence domination and epistemic violence this training package presents proven interactive techniques and specific teaching tools for instituting systems of organizational conflict resolution the authors introduce a hands on method of learning and teaching organizational conflict resolution through the use of exercises quizzes surveys games role plays and other interactive techniques that can be used by anyone engaged in teaching or practicing conflict resolution all of these exercises have been developed and applied in the real world
