counter terrorism networks in the european union maintaining democratic legitimacy after 9 11 presents a model of democratic legitimacy for within international counter terrorism co operation exploring the current practices of european union eu counter terrorism policing developed after 9 11 it highlights the current significant challenges to democratic legitimacy and seeks to present tools and solutions which ensure democratic counter terrorism actions and the protection of human rights counter terrorism policing is now a global concern with co operation between security authorities of different countries a crucial feature in the fight to prevent terrorism and extremism yet given the emphasis on pre emption this type of policing tends to interfere to a far greater extent with the rights of the individual than traditional policing this book scrutinises the current focus of enhanced communication between counter terrorist associates at member state and eu levels within europe alongside analysis of just how far the traditional protective mechanisms of accountability and oversight are managing to keep up with this development it proposes that current forms of counter terrorism policing within the eu should be understood as networks sets of expert institutional nodes or individual agents from at least two countries that are interconnected in order to authorize and provide security with regard to counter terrorism using the european police office europol as a key example in recent years the international community has increasingly come to abandon the use of comprehensive sanctions in favour of targeted sanctions unlike adopting a coercive strategy on entire states actors like the united nations un and the european union eu have come to resort to measures that are aimed at individuals groups and government members targeted sanctions involve adopting measures such as asset freezes travel bans commodity sanctions as well as arms embargoes eriksson argues that recent changes in the practice of sanctions from comprehensive to targeted sanctions requires a new way of understanding international sanctions practice not only do we need to rethink our methodology to assess recent practice but also to rethink the very theory of sanctions this valuable new perspective provides recent thinking on targeted sanctions trends in practice and unique case studies for evaluation based on substantial research this is a must read for students scholars and practitioners interested in international politics the various political crises that occurred in 2008 and the gradual shift of the world towards a new multipolar order vividly demonstrated the vital role that the eu can and should play on the international stage today this holds true whether in the context of the global financial crisis and its implications for the conduct of foreign policy regional crises or with regard to partnerships with the other global players as underlined by the high representative for cfsp javier solana and by the european commission in the report on the european security strategy the eu now carries greater responsibilities than at any time in its history in the face of increasingly complex threats and challenges in georgia somalia darfur kosovo guinea bissau as well as in many other places in the world the european union strives to contribute to the defence and protection of vulnerable civilian populations and to promote security this chaillot paper the ixth volume in the euiss annual series of core documents on european security and defence is a compilation of all the main decisions and initiatives undertaken by the eu in 2008 in the framework of the european security and defence policy esdp
