the middle east is well known for its historic gardens that have developed over more than two millenniums the role of urban landscape projects in middle eastern cities has grown in prominence with a gradual shift in emphasis from gardens for the private sphere to an increasingly public function the contemporary landscape projects either designed as public plazas or public parks have played a significant role in transferring the modern middle eastern cities to a new era and also in transforming to a newly shaped social culture in which the public has a voice this book considers what ties these projects to their historical context and what regional and local elements and concepts have been used in their design with growing evidence of unsustainable use of the world s resources such as hydrocarbon reserves and related environmental pollution as in alarming climate change predictions sustainable development is arguably the prominent issue of the 21st century this volume gives a wide ranging introduction focusing on the arid gulf region where the challenges of sustainable development are starkly evident the gulf relies on non renewable oil and gas exports to supply the world s insatiable co2 emitting energy demands and has built unsustainable conurbations with water supplies dependent on energy hungry desalination plants and deep aquifers pumped beyond natural replenishment rates sustainable development has an interdisciplinary focus bringing together university faculty and government personnel from the gulf europe and north america including social and natural scientists environmentalists and economists architects and planners to discuss topics such as sustainable natural resource use and urbanization industrial and technological development economy and politics history and geography the fourth in this series the contemporary archive of the islamic world caiw this title draws on the resources of cambridge based world of information which since 1975 has followed the politics and economics of the region qatar s documented history begins in the mid 19th century its location established it as having close if differing links to bahrain kuwait and saudi arabia notionally under ottoman rule qatar did not become a de facto protectorate of great britain until some time after the end of the ottoman empire the discovery of oil in qatar happened later than was the case with its neighbours however the discovery of substantial oil deposits and later of enormous gas reserves changed qatar beyond recognition allowing it to claim in the 1980s that its inhabitants were the richest people on earth still a semi feudal monarchy it gained full independence in 1971 but was initially considered to be the least developed state in the gulf by the 21st century many close neighbours felt that in a number of respects qatar was becoming an unreliable partner to the extent that in 2017 a number of its fellow gulf cooperation council gcc members as well as other states notably egypt broke off diplomatic relations this open access book comprising thirty nine chapters divided into social cultural economic and political spheres offers a unique opportunity to dive into the complex dynamic and sometimes contradictory transformation of gulf societies in the last few decades whilst the gulf region has at times been seen as impervious to this natural phenomenon of transformation timeless never changing deeply rooted in its ancient tribal customs and traditions and able to blend past and present seamlessly without suffering the wrenching trauma of change this is clearly not the case and the region is not immune to the inevitable forces of social change there is no doubt today that the social change sweeping the gulf has been profound affecting almost every aspect of life in the gulf societies this volume has an encyclopedic value as the chapters collectively offer multifaceted and multidisciplinary perspectives to understand social change in the gulf region through these chapters the role of economic and educational transformation and the impact of social media migration and urbanization have in driving social change in the gulf societies is examined in detail with a focus on their directions magnitudes and relevant policy options it also considers how covid 19 is affecting the lives of the people in the gulf this book bridges gaps in the understanding of the rapid pace of social change in the gulf offering practical solutions for policy interventions it is of interest to scholars and students in middle eastern studies specifically as well as sociology media studies migration studies and educational policy the global south is entering an urban age where for the first time in history more people will be living in cities than in the countryside the logics of this prediction have a dominant framing rapid urbanization uncontrolled migration resource depletion severe fuel shortages and the breakdown of law and order we are told that we must be prepared the solution is simple they say mega urbanization is an opportunity for economic growth and prosperity therefore we must build big build new and build fast with contributions from an international range of established and emerging scholars drawing upon real world examples mega urbanization in the global south is the first to use the lens of speed to examine the postcolonial urban revolution from the mega urbanization of lusaka to the production of satellite cities in jakarta to new cities built from scratch in masdar songdo and rajarhat this book argues that speed is now the persistent feature of a range of utopian visions that seek to expedite the production of new cities these fast cities are the enduring images of postcolonial urbanism which bypass actually existing urbanisms through new power knowledge coalitions of producing knowing and governing the city the book explores three main themes part i examines fast cities as new urban utopias which propagate the illusion that they are quick fix sustainable solutions to insulate us from future crises part ii discusses the role of the entrepreneurial state that despite its neoliberalisation is playing a key role in shaping mega urbanization through laws policies and brute force part iii finally delves into how fast cities built by entrepreneurial states actually materialise at the scale of regional urbanization rather than as metropolitan growth this book explores the contradictions between intended and unintended outcomes of fast cities and points to their fault lines between state sovereignty capital accumulation and citizenship it concludes with a vision and manifesto for slow and decelerated urbanism this timely and original book presents urban scholars with the theoretical empirical and methodological challenges of mega urbanization in the global south as well as highlighting new theoretical agendas and empirical analyses that these new forms of city making bring to the fore
