Motivation

- ❑ The electoral cycle approach requires the review of how we design of electoral assistance projects to include long term issues
- ❑ ICT alters the way in which elections are conducted
- ❑ Provision of electoral assistance is increasingly involving the review, choice, introduction and use of adequate ICT solutions in different areas of the electoral process
- ❑ EC plays a major role in assisting beneficiary countries to introduce ICT in electoral processes
 - EC is concerned by cost effectiveness, transparency and sustainability for EMB
 - EC remains concerned by political and financial implications

Scope

- Identify general and specific trends through a comparative study
 - Comparative assessment of the experiences of selected countries
 - Comprehensive review of the use of ICT in civil/voter registration and transmission of electoral data
 - Suitable process in various electoral assistance scenarios
 - Practical hands-on guide on support to civil/voter registration and transmission of electoral data
- Auditing of civil and voter registration data
 - Auditing methodology & practice
 - Tools for auditing
- Knowledge dissemination

Methodology

Multistage study

1. Understanding the design and implementation of these projects
2. Cost effectiveness (cost estimator), monitoring (indicators), and auditing
3. Case studies and comparative analyses
4. Knowledge dissemination

Action-research

- Hypotheses are formulated through literature survey analyses
- They are tested on ongoing projects or projected onto previous projects
- Results are analysed
- Conclusive results are integrated into various models
- Inconclusive results are dropped

Current Status

- Started in September 2008
- Through action-research, it contributed to several projects (Benin, Ivory-Coast, Guinea-Bissau, Zambia, etc.)
- Framework for performing comparative analyses is ready
- Auditing facet is complete
- Study continues under the GPECS

Use of ICT in electoral processes

- Well-known best practices remain not applied
 - Nature of EMB
 - Vendors specialising in ICT for electoral processes
 - Donor fatigue in post electoral periods
- National stakeholders have faith in ICT!
 - No proper feasibility study
 - Due diligence not performed
 - Rapid evolution of ICT not factored into the decision making process
- Togo remains the perfect illustration of these problems

Integration of civil & voter registration

- Extraction of the civil register
 - Disenfranchise a large portion of the electoral population
 - Requires a reliable civil register
 - Convergence between the registers

- Revamping a defunct civil register using the voters' register
 - Three steps approach
 - Synchronisation of civil and voters' registers
 - Implementation of continuous voter Registration
 - Adjunction of vital statistics
 - Phasing out of the voters' register

Ad hoc/Periodic voter registration

Recording of:

- Existence of an individual
- Dependants of an individual
- Marital status of the individual
- Residency (location)

Electoral cycle 0

- Setup of the electoral register

Permanent voter registration

Capture of:

- Existence of people who have reached electoral majority
- Death or absence from the country in the context of compulsory registration

- Update procedure
- Permanent structure
- Coverage of the country
- Sustainability of the approach

Civil registration

Recording of vital statistics:

- Births, adoption, legitimation, recognition
- Deaths
- Marriage, divorce, annulment, judicial separation

- Mutation to civil registration
- Simultaneity
- Continuous operation

Organized within:

Costing of Voter Registration

- Three entry points for cost estimation
- Parametric costing
 - Costs are not comparable from one country to another
 - Driving factors are country specific
- Analogous costing
 - Should not be use at resource mobilisation
- Implementation of sound and valid data collection of project performance statistics during the electoral cycle

Auditing Voter Registration

- Three entry points for auditing
- Auditing practice
 - Based on international standards
 - Control objectives in relation with electoral cycle approach
- Auditing metrics
- Sample size calculation for statistical tests based on formulae derived from electoral mathematics

Procurement of ICT

- ❑ Procurement experts
- ❑ ICT experts
- ❑ Procurement should not be left to ICT experts but to a combined team of procurement experts + ICT experts
 - Planning
 - Management of the procurement chain
 - Implementation of measures to prevent integrity problems
